

RPI Consultants to Sponsor and Attend 2019 Manufacturing Operations Conference

RPI Consultants will sponsor and attend the 2019 Manufacturing Operations Conference, hosted by the Michigan Manufacturers Association.

Baltimore, Maryland // Thursday, January 31, 2019 // <https://www.rpic.com> – RPI Consultants (RPI) announced today that it will sponsor and attend the 2019 Manufacturing \(MFG\) Operations Conference, hosted by the Michigan Manufacturers Association (MMA) on March 7th, 2019 at the Henry Center for Executive Development in East Lansing, MI. According to the conference website, “Michigan’s most successful CEOs, CFOs, and managers know operational success begins by staying atop emerging trends in finance, human resources, talent and technology. The all-new MFG Operations Conference will connect you with thought leaders on today’s most puzzling operational issues and help you develop a strategy to stay ahead of the competition.”

Senior Account Executive Jim Fall will be representing RPI Consultants and says he looks forward to joining Michigan’s manufacturing leaders to discuss opportunities to reduce costs and delays in manufacturing operations through automation technology. “Business process and content automation software can do a lot to remove manual data entry and processing from manufacturing operations,” explains Fall, “which helps manufacturers get products out the door faster and with reduced costs.”

Specifically, the conference will focus on business functions and back-office departments like accounts payable (AP), human resources (HR), and information technology (IT) management. “AP and HR usually rely on resource intensive processes involving people moving a lot of data and paper around,” explains Fall, “so when you can eliminate errors and process documents and data faster through technology like advanced data capture and enterprise content management, there’s a clear and measurable return on investment.”

RPI has strategic partnerships with enterprise software providers Infor Lawson, Kofax, and Hyland, including extensive experience with Perceptive Content by Hyland (formerly ImageNow). The company provides technical and solution consulting services, including new installations and upgrades, technical and solution health checks, system optimizations, training and documentation, and managed services.

Jim Fall will be available to meet with attendees before, after, and during networking sessions at the conference. For more information, or to schedule a meeting, email jfall@rpic.com, or call (734) 604-0577.
